Falling Off in Internal Bevenue Receipts-Louisiana Affairs-The President's Letter, etc.

Special to the Cincinnati Commercial of to-day. Washington, September 30 .- A large fallready shown, which is entirely attributed to the unsettled condition of financial affairs throughout the country, although, as previousl stated, a very fair increase in the receipts from this source ought to have begun to appear by this time, from the fact that many distilleries which had suspended during the summer had or were about to resume business when Yesterday's receipts, as shown by the books of the Internal Revenue Bureau, were two hundred and ninety-two thousand dollars less than on the same day of last week, and the collections to-day were eventy-two thousand dollars below those of last Tuesday.

A similar proportionate decrease will probably be noticeable for ten days or two weeks, though this will not prove a loss, because the distillers will doubtless continue to do business as usual, but will for the time being not withdraw their goods from warehouse as rapidly as under other circumstances.

The colored people of Louisiana are hold a Convention on November 17th, for the purpose of preparing a statement to be submitted to Congress in the interest of the Kellogg government. More than usual significance attaches to this proposed gathering, from the fact that Senator Morton has given an implied promise to visit New Orleans at that time and address the colored people upon the political situa-

The Administration organ has already begun to explain President Grant's recent letter on financial affairs. It says the legal tender reserves will not be placed at the disposal of the banks, but will be held to meet the demands of the yublic necessity as those demands are demonstrated through the transactions of the Treasury Department. The Government can not and will not draw on the re-serve, except to meet its own obligations, but eventually the banks may receive the benefit of such action.

THE EXPOSITION.

The Magnificent Display of Jewelry-The House Furnishers and Other Art-

Yesterday afternoon the crowd at the seven hundred and five hundred and fifty Exposition was large in point of numbers, and at nightfall showed no diminution; for as fast as one car or vehicle received its load another hove to to discharge carge. A stranger who had been "doing" the Cincinnati exhibition, and had come to see what the rival city of Indianapolis could do in opposition, was enthusiastic where he had only been positive before, and fastening upon a News no one viewed in the same light as self. First came the jewelers with their stores of golden work, their jewelry, blazing diamonds, and other treasures of great value. Harry Craft's was pointed out, with its diamond cross and earrings valued at $2,500, and single gems of $3,000, the amethyst set encrusted with diamonds also, and the 157. sported in cases jewelry Jungunsen watches and silver ware. Bingam came too, with his extensive display, although he seems to treasure most his relies of a Washington medal, the breastpin that Martha Washington wore, the first silver coined in America, ter running west of here. Brattin, of Greencastle, is more behind his competitors in some of the more valued jewelry novelties. A long-faced individual don't particularly admire the Procustean mirror, which magnifies the wrong way, but he does the other "oddities and endities" shown. the other "oddities and endities" shown; particularly the silver coin of 1803, and the gold of 1799, the American watch with a rubper case, the automatic clock direct from Paris, with its singing bird, rustic well, etc. To all their collections should be added the superb cases in which the treasures are shown, themselves worth sufficient to cause a stringency in an ordinary money market. Not far off are the Ike Davis collection of tiles, hats if you like the phrase better, equipped and mounted in an $800 case; the finest of its kind in the building. Just be yond is John Woodbridge & Co.. with their quaint and costly glassware, some of it fabulous in value; and ranged alongside, malapropos as it were, the drugs and medicines of Browning & Sloan. Farther over, the Cincinnati man struck that infernal dried Mummy, of Egyptian birth, and then darted up the stairway and roamed around among the oil paintings, sewing machines, from the good looking McLain of the Singer, to the very last, including old Wheeler himself; then around about those bedsteads and costly at No. 164 Maiden Lane, in the cotton warehouse of Collins, Murray & Humphrey, caused a loss of $2,900, insured.

A resolution was passed to the effect that the Board had not encouraged or tolerated the sale of spirituous liquors on the grounds, and that the officers of the law have the suppression of the unlicensed traffic in their own hands. With their usual vacillating purpose they also requested any citizen or law officer seeing such violations on the fair grounds be requested to prosecute the offend-

The Committee on Amusements this forenoon agreed to offer a purse of $200-$120 to the first horse, $60 to the second and $20 the third—to be trotted for at Exposition Park, on Monday, October 6th, open to all horses that have never beaten three minutes, mile heats, best three in five, to harness; entries to close Thursday. October 2d, at 6 r. M. Entrance fee ten per cent. of purse and must accompany nomination; also entries must be delivered to Secretary Herron, at the Ex-position building before 6 r. m. Thursday.

The beautiful weather brought thousands of visitors from different parts of the State this forenoon, and the Exposition building and grounds were thronged at an early hour. The attendance will far exceed any previous day since the opening.

Entries for the State Fair continue to come in rapidly, over two hundred being made be one of the largest ever held, and the dis-

THE REFINING AND MANUFACTURING COMPANY Made their visible presence known last night in the west end of Exposition Hall, second floor, by the brilliancy of the illumination to which they treated the visitors. The effect freshing, and added greatly to the interest of that department of the building. The of that department of the counter was laden with a large variety of both glass and metal goods, flanked at either to the laws while from to the EXPOSITION end by beautiful pulpit lamps, while from the ceiling hung the most elegant patterns of chandeliers, including several patent extension drawing room styles, (the center drop of which can be raised or lowered at pleas-ure,) a variety of hall lights, and a splendid twelve-light church or hall chandelier, tasty in design, and gorgeous in its make and fin-ish, without doubt one of the finest coal-oil chandeliers ever manufactured. On this beautiful piece of mechanism the Novelty burner is used, doing away with the necessity of removing the chimneys to light up. The walls are occupied by a number of side brackets, with large silver reflectors. To Mr. Parks, the treasurer of the company, and Mr. Butterworth, the foreman of the shops, belong the credit of fixing up this grand dis-play, and they may well feel proud of the success they have achieved. The salesroom of the Manufacturing and Refining Company is at 115 E. Washington street.

HILDEBRAND AND FUGATE on the second floor exhibit a display that can at once be set down as the most creditable display ever made by a hardware firm in the West. Cutlery of the best steel, both ivory and pearl handled, carving knives and forks, saws, cross cut and circular, arranged in the most artistic manner, carpenter's tools of all descriptions, locks of all patterns, hunting accourrements complete, revolvers, etc. The most attractive part of their display is the case containing the bronzed hinges, bolts, locks, knobs, etc. Many of the magnificent placed in the department from the Jewel Hall, 24 East Washington street, is much ad-mired. This article weighs about eight pounds, made from American silver. The works are American, and are perfectly finished. This, with the ten carat diamond in the same display of Harry Craft's, are said to be the largest watch and largest diamond ever seen in this city. The Singer Sewing Machine Company are constantly besieged by the ladies visiting the Exposition. The family machine run by a single thread for a band seems to open their eyes to the fact that the Singer can not be excelled by any machine as one of easy running and of perfect work. The glass cases there, containing samples of work, are gazed at and encomiums passed that must be pleasing to the managers of this machine.

ALONG THE LINE

of sewing machines is seen a handsome glass case containing a minature bride and groom, fat hogs, and sheep, and cattle, every one to its kind; altogether making a show sufficient for the attraction of a good many more thoudisplayed at the Exposition.

IN POWER HALL

We met Mr. E. A. Benedict, the general gent for the Buckeye Mower and Reaper, with Buckeye Table-rake, manufactured by Aultman, Miller & Co., of Akron, Ohio. This gentleman is constantly surrounded by gen-tlemen interested in agricultural imple-ments. This machine, although exhibited several times before at our State Fairs, and attracted a great deal of attention, has never received the encomiums that are now being passed upon it. Improvements are constantly being made. Every one knows that experience is always a dear teacher, and this have profited by it.

TWO GRAND MEDALS

Were awarded the Buckeye at Vienna, an item in regard thereto we clip from an ex-

"As the Buckeye was never before exhibited at a World's Fair, it entered the field trial and competed only for the medal, for merit under the following rule, viz:

"Exhibitors for the first time taking part in a universal, exhibition will receive, as reward for the merit they have shown in a national composition of the merit they have shown in a national composition of the merit they have shown in a national composition of the merit they have shown in a national composition of the medial part of the medal of the m tional, economical or technical point of view, the medal for merit.'

It will be seen from the above official regulations, that the diploma of honor was not offered as a reward for merit of machiney, but simply as a recognition of the merits of "individuals or corporations." The claims of the Buckeye Mower and Reaper Company to that distinction, were not laid before the Vithis morning up to ten o'clock, and the clerks are busily engaged recording others. The prospect now is that the State Fair will wanted a recognition of their own merits, but they did want a recognition of the supeplay of live stock, etc., superior to any here-tofore exhibited. It is safe to predict that was what they competed for in the field trial. the attendance during the day and evening and this they received in the form of two grand medals for merit.

Mr. Benedict informs us that this firm fell behind in the filling of orders, and are carrying them over for another year. His warehouse is under Masonic Hall, where

George H. Heitkam & Kenney make an elegant display of what dress does to make the gentleman. Elegant overcoats of all shades and colors; fine ready made clothing, perfect in all respects; dressing gowns, and gents' furnishing goods to suit the tastes of the most fastidious.

After Jacks's Murderers.

The police last evening got wind that Wilson, one of the murderers of Jacks. was concealed in the attic of the Post Office, and a thorough examination of the premises was made by Colonel Ruckle and others without success. This morning Lieutenant Travis and a posse of officers continued the examination, and found indisputable evidence that a concealed party had recently been there. They also secured testimony that implicated Lorenzo Kemp, an employe upon the new addition, as implicated in the purposed concealment, and he was arrested by officers Taylor and Murphy, who found him lounging around Jacks's saloon trying to get possession of John Cope's clothing. Kemp possession of John Cope's clothing. Kemp admitted to a News reporter that no longer ago than yesterday noon he knew Wilson was concealed in the attic, but he knew nothing of his escape from there, nor where he had gone; and after his incarceration in the station house declined to further converse. The law should hold Kemp accessory because he abetted the escape of the murderers, and it doubtless will. There are others also who may set that trouble on the capre. also who may get into trouble on the same account. Weaver and Roberts, two brick masons, engaged at work on the Post Office addition were arrested and lodged in the body of the jail this afternoon, on suspicion of aiding and abetting the escape of Cope and Wilson, the murderers of Captain Jacks. They are known to have furnished these men with eatables last evening, and it is very probable that they are aware of their place of secre-

ALL the fortifications in France, it is said, are to be bound up with those of Paris, by some sort of unexplained connection, which will make each a part and support of all the rest. This is decidedly the most extensive system of fortifications ever known, and one feels a little curiosity to know how it is to be executed.

THE Honduras brigands who robbed the consulates and foreign residents of Ornas recently, as we noticed the other day, have been brought to terms. The English war steamer Niobe demanded reparation, and upon refusal knocked the robbers' den about their ears, brought them down to a flag of truce and the payment of $40,000 indemnity.

SENATOR MORTON thinks the crisis is not over, but just coming, and wants an extra (boat) of the Princess Tula was a lover of session of Congress to meet the difficulty. The Senator seems to be inoculated with the notion, unrepublican and mischievous, that the government must be looked to as the universal protector, arbiter and director of the people's affairs, public and private. He is easily scared, and besides he has a hobby, the return to specie payments, and the two make him silly sometimes.

THE New York firm of Lawrence Bros. has refused to compound a felony. An embezzling clerk proposed to return all he had stolen if the prosecution should be withdrawn-an arrangement, accepted and even urged, by the losers ninety-times in a hundred-but he was told that the firm preferred to lose the money to allowing a scoundrel to escape punishment. It is a mournfully: good, manly, honest act, but it will hardly avail the community much. The thief has avail the community much. If anybody believed him, the Ultramontanes would feel a little blue at the repudiation of their suggestiens and refusal to take up the exceedingly indefensible quarrel of the Pope; but professions like these are neither credited nor meant SECRETARY RICHARDSON may or may not be a first-rate financier, but he is certainly a first-rate letter-writer. His reply to the resolutions of the New York Produce Exchange suggesting certain plans to relieve the money market, is about as thorough and smashing a document as we ever encountered. In its way it is quite up to the mark of Webster's reply to Hulsemann. He demolishes all pretenses for the disbursement of currency by the Government upon the deposit of gold in England, and put the law in the way of the payment of the bonds of 1874. It is a real pleasure, in these days of endless and aimless verbiage, to see a paper that goes straight to the point, and hits it, without wasting a word.

THE interview between a correspondent of the New York World and Bismarck, in which the Prussian statesman is made to avow opinions of God and religion wilder than any dream of theosophists, and more degrading than any legend of mythology, was universally discredited when it was published, not only as an impossible opinion in a sane man, but an impossible utterance even in an insane man. It bore its falsehood all over it, and was covered with A dispatch from Portland says work on the Northern Pacific Railroad has not suspended. It is expected the cars will be runthe World defended it and insisted on its the World defended it, and insisted on its correctness. Now it has been proved a forgery, by the testimony of Bismarck himself, who says he not only never had such opinions but never had any interview with anybody connected with the New York World in his life. It only needed this deliberate forgery to put the seal of utter discredit on the whole system of "interviewing," sometimes beneficial, often impertinent and scandalous, and run by certain "enterprising" papers to such an extreme of indecency and meanness that the sooner the whole practice is abolished the better for the papers, their news, and their readers, and the better for the good fame of the country. > One of our exchanges, describing an extemporized wedding in some Western town recently says, "it was very different to the "stately congratulations and formal leave "takings which prevail in society." "Dif-At ferent to" is one of the most ridiculous some of the greatest writers in English literature. The curious reader will see it in Thackeray and in Charlotte Bronte and Wilkie Collins and in the scholarly editorials of London papers, and oftener far in English than American articles. Yet a sition won't fit the expression of difference. It must be "different from" not "to." Thackeray was once called to account for this blunder in Boston, and frankly admitted that it was a silly solecism, for which there was no palliation but use. The very etymology of the word "Dis-fero," "to bear away or apart from," compels the right preposition, and Thackeray, an excellent scholar-a little pedantic, indeed, at times-had only to have the matter suggested to see it all. Another blunder of exactly the same character is 'more prevalent here than in England. We nearly always say "averse to," when the etymology of the word is "to turn from." The English usually say "averse from," and balance the account of blunders with us by this set off. Another very common error is to confound "luxuriant" with "luxurious." General Wallace does it in his admirable story of the "Fair God," in saying that "the man who built the chinampa or the luxuriant." These be small matters, but as they are just as easily done right as wrong, why not do them right?

Unaffected Plety.

[Max Adeler.] When Chubb's wife died we called in to mourn with him, and, if possible, to console him in his afflictions. The old man sat in the rocking chair, with his eyes closed, chewing a toothpick, and rocking to and fro as he mused over the years that had apparantly sped so happily in company with his late partner. We gently approached the subject of Mrs. Chubb's departure. We assured him that we sympathized with him in deep affliction, and the more sincerely because we well knew the estimable qualities of his wife, and were familiar with the vir tue with which she adorned her She was, indeed," we said, "an excellant woman; a remarkable woman; a woman of sterling qualities and of unaffected piety." stopped rocking and looked at claimed: "unaffected piety? [New York Tribune.] In the midst of the flurry in Wall street it is greatly to be feared that a much more im-portant event may be lost sight of. The Court of Appeals has just affirmed the de-cision of the Brooklyn City Court in the case of Homan vs. Earle. This decision practicaly abolishes kissing in affixing thereto the enalty of matrimony at the discretion of Tolthousan ds of gay butterflies and pretty innocents this news will be of deep and painful interest. The story of the case is the following: A few months ago Miss Roxelana Homan brought suit in our neighboring city for breach of promise against Mr. Alexander Earle, a prosperous merchant.
Mr. Earle imagined that before Roxelana could gain her case she must make the promise appear. He denied it, and rested calmly, "just like a man," upon the law and logic of the matter. Miss Homan admitted there was no promise, verbal or written, but founded her claim upon the fact that Earle had frequently kissed her. While the unhappy man was congratulating himself upon his easy escape, his heart within him was turned to stone by these inconceivable words from to stone by these by Judge Neilson, with the bench, spoken by Judge Neilson, with measured accents and slowly flapping ears. He charged that no words were necessary to constitute an engagement. "The gleam of the eye and the conjunction of the lips," said ing next week. It would be a noval affair this light of jurisprudence, "are overtures, in this section of the country, and would when they become frequent and protracted." doubtless attract a large attendance. As yet, the matter has not been brought before shall be at once idiotic and gallant, gave Roxlana $15,000 for the wear Of course the case was appealed, and the higher tribunal has promptly confirmed the decision of the Court below. It is therefore the law at this hour in the State of New York 342 28 that if a bachelor kisses a spinster said spinster may rightfully claim his hand or his goods. In cases where shyness or lack of opportunity may have prevented actual os-culation, the young lady has still another string to her beau; if she can show that he has ever "shined his eye" in her direction, he is her lawful spoil, according to Judge Neilson. There is positively no protection for a bachelor except nose-bags and blind-bridles, and the ability to prove he has never left them off. To this extent the future at least is secure. But how many bachelors can wake up in the night and soothe their consciences with the reflection that, like Sir Galahad, "they never felt the kiss of love, or maiden's hand in their's?" If any such there be, sweet must be his sleep; but if in his memory lurks any record of early spoons, how harrowing must be the thought that he is the promised spouse of every girl he has ever idly saluted There are young men today universally beloved and respected the cynosures of Sunday-schools and the delight of evangelical tea-parties, who in the clear vision of Judge Neilson are no better than Priam, King of Troy, or Brigham, Patriarch

The practical results of this momentous decision are appalling. No youth who values his liberty will hereafter suffer himself to be kissed except by a lady who can show her an infringement upon a patent owned solely marriage certificate, and bring proof that her husband is living. With this exception, this soothing and humanizing amusement must be confined to the domestic circle, and the young man of the future will be "doomed mere sisterly salutes to feel, insipid things, like sandwiches of veal."

The Stringency in our Currency.

[Gath's Letter to Chicago Tribune.] I asked a banker at the National Capital to-day, what, in his opinion, accounted for the apparent shrinkage in the currency. The day Jay Cooke & Co. failed, a note broker of New York had said to Comptroller Knox that there was not enough money to go around. This coincidence pointed my inquiry.

"The shrinkage is not merely apparent, said my authority, "nor is it altogether real. Look at it! We had $750,000,000 in circulation in the year 1865. It repaesented wholly the States not in rebellion. Since that time several millions of people in rebellion have been added to the population, and provided with national banks. Very copious immi-gration has been added to the Union, and a large native population has grown up within it in eight years. Every child born is a contractionist; every immigrant is a contractionist. And yet the currency remains the same in golume. The extent of the country, also, increased by late railroad development, has called the currency off remote new Territories. And, of the actual currency, not all can ever be at the same time in circulation; if a dollar in your pocknt be the representative of what is in every yerson's, there are thirty-eight idle millions. When money at ordi-nary times is concentrated in New York, there is quiet movement there; but when, at a time like this, the currency goes West to buy and move the crops, stringency happens.
Great operators like Gould perceive it, and,
to increase the stringency, slip in and take off three or four millions more; for they are short of stocks, and want prices to go down. The President's friend Clews belongs to the same class with Jay Gould, by the way; he was short of stocks, and therefore a bear helping to precipitate this panic, All kinds of remedies have been proposed for the periodical stringency in the currency. I think that if the Treasury would keep $100,000,000 additional in greenbacks, and lend them to the banks at 8 per cent., in lieu of paying the banks interest on these bonds, these oscilla-tions of stringency would be met without any direct interference of government, and without panics.

Our Mistaken Leniency. [English Letter.]

On coming to the small alley in which executed criminals are buried, this lady-who is a good Quaker-shuddered at that, and the warder said:

"You will notice here that ours is a great improvement over the America they give the bodies of executed criminals to their friends who, as likely as not, make a hero of him, and bury him with But these scoundrels dread being ouried away in this alley, almost as much as boys who pitched into him at New Lisbon, they dread the gallows. This is a chief part of their punishment. The lady having suggested that execution vas quite enough, the warder replied: "Not a bit of it. I was showing our place the other day to a remarkably intelligent Amer can who admired our arrangements exceedingly, only he thought we were too lenient. That gentleman said that the great mistake in America was leniency. 'Would you believe it,' said he, 'we caught a ra America the other day whom we ought immediately to have burned, and we only hung him. But we are coming to our senses, and are now making arrangements to burn certain men for whom the gallows is too good.

"Will thee be good enough to tell me the name of the American gentleman who made that remark to thee?" said the Quakeress. "Ah, yes," said the warden reflectively; let me see-it was a Mr. Mark Twain."

Rev. Alvah Wiswall, of Trinity Church. New York, makes reply to the charges of Mrs. Wiswall against him for squandering her property, and makes out a pretty ba case for the other party. When he her she had property to the value of $58,035. He offers to prove that every change in that property, advised and carried out by him, has been to the profit of her estate, but that the dissipation of the property is due to her unbounded extravagance, against his wish and remonstrance. He gives the amount of her bills for ten years, for which he says he can show vouchers, and they foot up over $70,000. One year, she maintained an equipage costing $2,000, and, at the same time, ncurred an expense of $1,287 50 in carriage hire. This gentleman has always devoted hi salary to family expenses, and has "run" himself for less than $500 a year. At the present time, after paying the rent of Mrs. Wiswall's house, the wages of her servant and $2 50 a day for her support, he has left from his annual $2,000 just $67 50. He is of medium height, very stout, and wears a heavy beard, whiskers, and mustache. He was dressed in a faultlessly fitting suit of gray clothes, and looked in all respects the beau ideal of a fashionable Londoner. In curious contrast to the author of the "Wo man in White" was the valet who stood in the room. The Council Nuisance.

The Fifth and Twelfth Ward citizens held another indignation meeting on the canal question last night, over which Samuel Lefever presided and S. B. Morris acted as Secre ry. After the customary number of speeches, which were more vigorous than usual, if any thing, it was resolved:

That the citizens of the Fifth Ward circulate a petition to be presented to the City Council asking that body to grant the right of way to the I. C. & L. Road, in accordance with the proposition to fill up the canal for the privilege of laying an additional track. That the Twelfth Ward petition the City Council to have the streets and alleys crossing the canal, filled, and give the property owners the right to fill the balance from Merrill street south to the corporation line. Samuel Lefever and Henry Langenberg were appointed to draft the petitions, and Messrs. Lefever, Kline, Goddard and Gray, of the Fifth Ward, and Messrs. Langenberg, Richardson, Morris, Hamilton and Maloney, of the Twelfth Ward as circulating commit-tees. These petitions are to be presented to the Council at its next meeting.

be ready for occupancy next week. Pat Moriarty, the chronic wife-beater, was before the Mayor again this morning. Yesterday a trunk was found in Bremmer man's wagon yard, rifled of its contents.

The Water Works nuisance case has been continued until next Monday in the Criminal Court. Morris Watson was arrested this morning on a grand jury warrant and gave bail in the sum of $300.

Judge Howland has not yet returned, and his court is being adjourned from day to day until he puts in his appearance. Marriage licenses have been issued to Wm.

H. Bonnoll and Phebe Shoemaker, James S. Cras and Elizabeth W. Blessing. This is pay day with the police force, but with the City Treasury in its present condition their warrants could not be redeemed.

An old man employed on Frank Hamilton's house, in the northeaster part of the eity, was considerably injured yesterday by the giving way of a scaffold.

A lively runaway occurred on South New Jersey street this morning, in which the buggy was completely demolished and the driver considerably bruised.

Frank James and Jacob Bungham, who indulged in a promiscuous knock-down at the Exposition last evening, were arrested and fined by the Mayor this morning. Officer Kiley, who has charge of the regular night police force at the Exposition, consisting of himself, McGregor and Findling, objects strongly to the charge that any steal-ing is done during their watch. It is likely true that during the day the building is filled with petty thieves, against whom it is impos-sible to entirely guard.

City Court.

Richard Barry, H. Perkins, Joseph Miles, H. E. Ross, Captain McCoy, James Lowman and John Perow were assessed the usual drunk fine.

SUICIDE.

We are now opening a new lot of Wonsted Dress Goods, purchased but a few days age, when the market was at the lowest ebb. They embrace a full line of all the new fabrics and popular shades of the very best qualities. These goods we will sell at special prices, that are very low, and will cause a lively rush.

We offer the same bargains on a superior stock of Black Alpacas and Mohairs, purchased at the same time.

Mrs. Shea reports less than half their value. passed the night in company with some other men. On the following day he was very despondent, and at one time threatened to throw himself in front of a locomotive and be crushed to death, but he was talked out of the proposition. Last evening about six o'clock he again returned, staying but a short time; and that was the last seen of him by Mrs. Shea until the lifeless body was found hanging to the tree in the rear yard of her residence early this morning. For a "rope" he used a shawl belonging to this woman, which she says must have been taken from the house last night unknown to the family. On Sunday he had some $10 in his possession, but an examination of the pockets this forenoon revealed nothing more valuable than six cents in coin, an old comb, some tobacco

The concert in behalf of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd, by the Catholic choirs and that of St. Paul's, is not only worthy of patronage, but will be full value to the purchaser of a ticket. These choirs contain some very fine voices, and taken altogethr will pro- zaar. duce one of the most pleasing entertainments of the season. The Black Crook still attracts a crowd. It is gorgeous to a degree, and the magnificence of the wardrobes are only equaled by their upon which all sorts of gorgeous ornaments and baubles are strung in careful confusion. But it draws. Next week Ned Buntine and his crowd of worthies will appear. Their acting is strikingly realistic, fresh and piquant, if not artistic. It is in defiance of all theatrical precedent, and is therefore good. As long as the New York Weekly and the Dime Novels find two readers to one of the Dime Novels find two readers to one of the state of things public taste is more to blame than the management whose business it is to Manufacturers' Meeting.

William Hannaman presided at the manufacturers' meeting, last evening, in the Board of Trade rooms, to consider how manufacturers were to carry on business during the stringency of the money market. A very general discussion "of it is hard to tell what" was had by the gentlemen present, and speeches were made by Messrs. Ruschaupt, Morris, Spiegel, Lippencott, Hasselman, Hannaman, Mothershead, Pettibone, Hel-wig, Crosby, Thalman and Prof. Cox, and finally the meeting adjourned until Friday night, after the appointment of a Committee on Resolutions, consisting of Messrs. Ruschaupt, Lippencott and Crosby. Beyond that the resolutions are to be prudent, expected to express that the panic is over, and that the manufacturers have confidence in Money Always on Hand the banks, the committee are not instructed.

There seemed to be a disposition among some of the manufacturers to secure the universal adoption of the monthly payment

Offer a Reward.

On Saturday night an atrocious murder was committed in this city, and the murder-ers are known to have fled for better security. Notwithstanding this, and notwith-standing if they are allowed to escape there will be still less protection to life and liberty in this city, no reward for their afrest has been offered; and the officers, if they track them to distant points, must do so at their own expense. The News does not believe in offering rewards to make the police do their duty, but it does believe they should be guaranteed legitimate expenses; and for this reason a certain sum should be offered in case of arrest; otherwise the police cannot secure assistance from detectives in other cities neither can they long afford to continue the search at their own expense.

A Protracted Trial.

The case of William Jones against Eliza both Hutton and others, which has been on trial in the Superior Court before Judge Newcomb since last Monday week was concluded this morning, Hon. A. G. Porter making the closing argument for the plain-tiff, and after a lengthy charge by the Judge the jury retired at half-past ten o'clock for deliberation. It will be remembered the plaintiff brings suit for $10,000 damages against his mother in-law, whom he charges with having enticed his wife to abandon him without any just cause. The case has been warmly contested by eminent counsel on both sides, and the result of the trial will be awaited with interest.

placing of obstructions of any kind of a railway track is a high crime, and we are glad to hear that steps have been taken to detect and punish to the fullest extent of the law any one placing obstructions on the street railway track during the Exposition. As there are more passengers to and from the Exposition than the street cars and express men together can carry, nothing could be sillier than any squabble or bad feeling be-tween them, growing out of competition or Talent Squandered.

John Lowe, who has been a terror to the bad children and the delight of the romantic maids of the West End, from his close resemblance to Buffalo Bill, has severed his con-nection with the Hazel Dell milk wagon to engage in the "hoss" and other traffic. There is a sneaking belief that he will appear on the Academy stage next Monday, but this he strenuously denies, and declares that the only stage he ever appeared upon was a milk wagon. If he would turn his attention to histrionic matters he would be sure to succeed, for he has the style and push that would do it.

The Acting Chief of Police and his assistants deserve credit for the zeal shown in the attempt to arrest the murderer of Jacks, and it will be a big feather in the cap of the officer that succeeds in fastening his clutches upon them.
